

ST. HELENS GATEWAY SCULPTURE PROJECT

Please join the St. Helens Arts and Cultural Commission's efforts to build the St. Helens Gateway Sculpture Project.

The St. Helens Gateway Sculpture Project consists of artistic landmark sculptures that will be attached to the east side of the highway bridge over Milton Creek in St. Helens, Oregon on the Columbia River Highway (Highway 30).

Created by artist Suzanne Lee, the sculptures are two metal obelisk lanterns with cutout images featuring the history, culture and natural assets of St. Helens and vicinity.

The intent is to make the highway frontage of St. Helens a more inviting and attractive place for residents and travelers. This art project supports the city's economic development efforts. The project is led by the Arts and Cultural Commission in partnership with Oregon Department of Transportation (ODOT) Highway Division.

The Arts and Cultural Commission plans to complete the project by the summer of 2014 with a budget of $50,000. Although it is funded mostly through the Arts and Cultural Commission, the Commission needs to raise money for the entire amount.

We ask you to join the Arts and Cultural Commission and make this project a reality. Please participate by donating whatever
